Advisor, Office of the CISO

Biography

Toby is an Advisor in Google Cloud's Office of the CISO, and an outspoken advocate for change in the motion picture industry.

As a Security Advisor, Toby works with the largest and most innovative studios and production companies on the planet, helping to develop security strategies across both the content and traditional enterprise domains.

Prior to Google, Toby worked at Microsoft where he spent five years bringing industry solutions to the Azure cloud. Some of the projects he worked on there include Avid's Edit On-demand and Dreamworks's cloud-based animation pipeline.

In all his work, he is guided by a simple maxim: Build systems like you won't be there to support them; build relationships like you will.
